Horsetail, also known as Shavegrass, bears the reputation of "surgeon without a knife." When rolled between the fingers, the stems of the plant reveal its true nature of containing silicon, the same material which makes sand and crystals strong and resilient. This natural crystalline structure not only supports the body and gives it a smooth finish, but acts as an internal surgeon to shave away unworthy tissues and slough them off. The body structure thus renewed has greater integrity and elasticity. At the rate of 40 drops per day, a smooth finish is given to the skin much like the skin of the surface of an apple, and provides the skin you love to touch. Nerves become very resilient, nails flexible and tough and hair becomes "silky" as is noted when rolled between the fingers. Allow up to four months or more of patience to see these changes. Horesetail is a slow moving herb when it comes to producing these effects but once it becomes part of these structures, you really have something you can count on. A maintenance amount then of 10 to 20 drops per day can maintain these desirable benefits. American Indian use for kidneys and fluid retention is well documented. Here 40 drops 3 times per day are recommended. The ingestion of Horsetail at the rate of 40 drops 3 times per day allows the body to cast out impurities of all kinds, including heavy metals and other pollutants through the bowel, urine, skin and nails and lungs.* GENERAL NOTE: If through the continued use of Horsetail over a period of several months or years Mercury amalgam fillings drop out of the teeth, be glad you are free of this deadly poison. Replace with gold or inert plastics. In the study of the eye, called Iridology, when discolored rings occur around the outer edge of the blue or brown part of the eye(s), it is called a scurf rim. This is an indication of body pollution which has settled in the skin area and can be cleansed effectively by Horsetail if further contact with pollutants are avoided. Wear natural fiber underclothes and clothing. Horsetail also cleans out lead poisoning. Horsetail strengthens the lenses of the eyes and their other structures when taken internally. Horsetail, by removing congestion around blood vessels, normalizes blood pressure. Russian folk medicine experience indicates your choice of herbs for bleeding from the stomach or the intestinal tract to be that of Horsetail.* DOSAGE: 40 drops per day for skin and hair and nails. 40 drops three times per day for more involved conditions.
