RUPTUREWORT (HAWKWEED) - Known down through the ages for its use in healing ruptures; coating stones from kidneys and bladder as well as breaking up the stones to cast them out of the body. Relieves fluid accumulation around the heart. For ruptures, apply Vitamin E oil from 100 i.u. capsules. Prepare a time-release application with a thermal and moisture barrier to drive the Rupturewort into the troubled area in the following manner: apply a layer of absorbent gauze or cheese cloth soaked with Rupturewort over the area of rupture, cover with plastic, and wrap a cloth around this to hold all in place. Leave on overnight. Wash area next morning, let dry and repeat same procedure for daytime dressing. Continue until healed. Also, take a digestaid: Gentian, Sweet Root or D.-W, 5 to 40 drops per meal, to prevent gas formation. Each evening use a bowel cleaner, 40 drops to 1 tsp to 1 Tbl., what-ever is needed to loosen and move the bowels at least 3 times per day. (See: Cascara Sagrada, Buckthorn or C.C.E.-W) This keeps potentially irritating wastes, which might be reabsorbed and complicate the repair process, out of the healing site. Keep the bowel smooth and prevent straining at stool by using 6 to 8 capsules of Psyllium (seeds, hulls or husks) along with a large glass of water each night. If gas pressures, take 40 to 80 drops of Ginger Extract in a cup of water.* DOSE:40 to 80 drops following meals, for internal use, to strengthen muscle tissue and correct kidney stones. As a preventive, 40 drops per day.*This product has not been evaluated by the Food and Drug Administration.
